

evocations

This section begins with Thierry Avalor's thoughts on receiving the foundations of one's existence as a child.

His essay inspires the ruminations that follow. Agustin and Leal Rodriguez, father and daughter, reflect on being a father, on the prospect of motherhood, and the infinite responsibility evoked by the child.